WOMEN IN THE CANVASS.

SEVERAL MOVEMENTS STARTED TO INFLUENCE FOTERS.

Mrs. Lowell's Organization the Most Conptenous-Women Making Republican Speeches to Working Women-Female Clonkmakers Trying to Better Their Condition by Politics Other Movements. The effort to get women to exert their influence in the present political campaign has re-sulted thus far in half a dozen distinct movements, and the prospect is that the number of organizations will be largely increased before election. Most conspicuous of all is the organ-ization under the leadership of Mrs. Josephine Shaw Lowell, which is the result of the suggestion made by Dr. Parkhurst. Others are the Anti-Tammany Association of the Twenty-third Assembly district, organized by Mrs. Mark M. Pomeroy: the Woman's Republican Associa-tion, under Miss Helen Varick Boswell; the Good Government Union, formed by Mrs. Elizabeth B. Grannis; the Philomatheon Society of the Normal College, under the leadership of Miss Florence Jeroloman; and the Ladies' Branch of the Cloakmakers' Union. Mrs. Marv F. Kelly is organizing the saleswomen of the hopping district into influence clubs.

This list may be increased early in the week by the addition of the Society for Political Study, of which Mrs. Theresa Barcalow is President. This society is composed of women who have at various times been interested in reform campaigns, but on account of the very pro-nounced views of most of the members they have been unable up to date to agree upon a line of action. They will hold a meeting on Tuesday, and it may be that those who desire to assist Dr. Parkhurst will triumph and carry the balance of the society with them.

The society movement directed by Mrs.

Lowell has attracted more attention than all the other movements combined. This is due not only to the social position of most of the women who are taking part in it, but also to complications arising out of the woman suf-frage movement. Thus, Mrs. Lowell and many of her most energetic helpers have been earnest in their advocacy of woman suffrage, while, on the other hand. Dr. Parkhurst came out flatfooted last spring against allowing women to vote. Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton has written a letter to Mrs. Lowell assuring her that the cause of woman suffrage could not fail to be benefited by Mrs. Lowell's participation in the movement; but that has not satisfied or convinced all the stalwarts among woman suffragists. It is whispered, too, that the movement has lagged a little on account of femining lealquaies over the of Mrs. Lowell as leader; and there has also been a difference of opinion as to methods. Some of the women interested in the movement in the beginning wanted to make it of the most popular character. They wanted to conduct it as men run a political campaign. But Mrs. Lowell had her own ideas. She decided to have a campaign of influence, like the woman suffrage meetings in drawing rooms last winter

The movement was formally started last spring at the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association. Although nominally a mass meeting, the proceedings were conducted as quietly as good taste would dictate. Only women having eards of invitation were admitted to the lowe part of the hall, and men were rigorously excluded. The reporters were requested not to make sketches or take pictures of those present. There was an attempt made to perfect an organization or to go through the formality of electing officers and appointing committees. Mrs. Lowell asserted in no way her leadership. There was not even a presiding officer. Dr. Parkhurst, when he came on the platform, followed by seven of the women managers chosen by Mrs. owell, simply began his talk on "The Con-

Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart is also a member of the Board. She is a Bouthern woman, coming from Baltimore, but a twelve-year residence here has established her popularity. She is not only rich, but a much-sought-after society leader. She has been identified with many charities. Mrs. Boudinot Keith was Miss Dora Wheeler and achieved fame before her marriage as the designer of wonderful embroideries. She is inclined to go in for the higher culture and has her home in summer at the Onteora settlement in the Catakills. Mrs. Henry M. Sanders, like her husband, was foremost in the suffrage campaign. Mrs. Charles H. Parkhurst, and Mrs. Merritt Frimble are other members of the Board of Managers.

Just what the duties of these managers will be Dr. Parkhurst and Mrs. Lowell both decline to tell. Mrs. Lowell says that the work is to go m, and hints at quiet effective educational meetings in pariors, with a few mass meetings in pariors, with a few mass meetings. One of the mass meetings will be held at Cooper Union next Friday afternoon. No invitations will be necessary to secure admittance.

The Woman's Republican Association, with affices at 103 West Eightieth street, is also coming to the front. In the absence of its President, Mrs. Judith Ellen Foster, who is now in Colorado, Miss Helen Varick Boawell has been placed in full charge of the work. This is a phase of the women's work started and maintained by the Republican campaign managers, it is purely a party organization. Six women have been engaged to deliver addresses. Each one of these spellbinders receives a salary of $25 a week and her necessary expenses. They intend to interest women who work in factories in this city, and to distribute campaign pins formed of the initials. W. R. A. "to all who are willing to enlist in the work of obtaining votes for the party ticket. The meetings are held mainly during the noon hour. Members of the association have announced that they will break away from the restrictions placed upon them, and join any movement that will tend to better the condition of working women.

Associated with Mrs. Pomeroy in this organization is Mrs. Mary F. Kelly, who attends to the work of managing the meetings, and organizing sub-associations. She is so ardent a reformer that she cannot find sufficient to occupy her attention in one district, and has extended her labors down town. She has engaged vigorously in the work of enlisting saleswomen of the shopping centres in the movement. She urges them to use the fascinating powers which they have at command to induce their brothers, fathers, and other girls' brothers to vote in accordance with her views. She expects to organize a great many influence clubs with this purpose in view.

By far the most unique movement is that started by the Ladles' Branch of the Closk-makers' Union. It is a question of wages and work with these women. They have gone into it in the hope of bettering their condition. They are looking for a municipal government that will give them better protection from sweat shops, from the slavery of long hours, and the oppression of employers. There is no politice in their action. While they have decided to take part in the campaign of influence, the question with them is not which party they will join or aid, but what they can get out of the political situation for the amelioration of their condition. They have chosen Miss Finkelstein as their leader, and intend to work heart and soul to see what politics can give for them.

The organization directed by Mrs. Elizabeth B. Grannis is named the Good Government Union. It asks women to use their influence for the election of men who are of known probity and who may be dopended upon to do the will of the people. Mrs. Grannis has not allied herself especially with the society movement. She much prefers to conduct a campaign upon a more popular plan. She has been a leader of women in many campaigns for reforms.

The down-town conferences, Mrs. Lowell said, are to be held in compliance with Dr. Parkhurst's suggestions, and are intended to cover particularly the east side.

Mrs. Lowell said that a feature of the campaign would be an endeavor to induce women to sign pledges that they will do all in their power to secure ten Tammany votes each and have them cast against Tammany. Leaflets printed in English, German, Italian, and Russian, giving reasons for opposing Tammany, will be distributed. Mrs. Lowell said that she would give out information to the public at 2 P. This Is the Name of the Grace Democracy for Petitioning Purposes.

The New York State Democracy rechristened tself at the meeting of its Executive Committee held in Cooper Union late yesterday afteroon. It may rather be said, perhaps, that it it adopted an alias, for it has not abandoned its old name altogether. For the purpose of nominating candidates in convention it is still the New York State Democracy, but when it comes to nominating by petition its members are to be known as "Empire State Democrats." Col. Strong had a visit yesterday from the Milholland Committee of Notification. The committee was headed by Gen. O. H. Le Grange, nd consisted of Otto Irving Wise, William F. Daly, Henry Clay Piercy, Moses G. Byers, T. St. Milholland himself. They found the Colonel after banking hours. He said he was very glad to see them, and then Gen. Le Grange told him what they had come for. Otto Irving Wise said:
"A great many Republicans are such good Republicans that they don't approve of the nomination of a Democrat for any office. They do not want to vote for a Democrat and they will not do it unless they are forced to. Our organization has not yet taken action on the rest of the ticket that has been nominated by the Committee of Seventy and endorsed by several organizations, and there has been some thought of our nominating a straight Republican ticket at our Convention which is to be held next week. Now, Col. Strong, we would like to ask you if such an action on our part would meet with your approval and if it would have any effect on your candidacy?"

Mr. Wise hesitated here. Col. Strong did not. He looked right straight at Mr. Wise, and then, with emphasis on every word and a shake of the head a word besides he said: "tentiemen, it would not meet with my approval! He went on and said that his conferces on the ticket just suited him, and any monkeying on the part of Mr. Milholland's men would hurt his chances.

RETAIL GROCERS IN POLITICS. Their Secretary Thinks They Will Jump

The latest addition to these stirring elements is the New York Retail Grocers' Union. This union owns a new hall up at 138 and 140 East Fifty-seventh street, has a at 138 and 140 East Fifty-seventh street, has a membership of 1,000, and professes to represent 13,000 grocers in and about this city. This union proposes to take a hand in local political matters this fall. For this purpose it has appointed a committee upon political reform. Notices were sent out yesterday, calling specially upon the members of the union to attend a meeting to be held at the union's roomson Monday night. The notice says in parts:

I feel pretty sure that the committee will recommend in strong terms that one candidate for Mayor shall be endorsed and that we shall help elect him, and that another shall be cindemined and that we work against him. If they do I think it is probable that a mass meeting will be called where we can give expression and effect to our onlines."

SIMPSON FIXES CAMPBELL

POOR TIM'S A-COLD AND CANNOT GO BACK TO CONGRESS.

The Police Thought the Convention Was a Clonkmakers' Elot, but It Was Only the Funeral of the Oriental Law Strar-Johnny Simpson Nominated for Congress. Congressman Timothy J. Campbell, who was turned down by Tammany Hall in the Ninth district when he desired a renomination, has been flirting with the Republicans, hoping to secure their endorsement of him should be stand as a candidate of the Grace Democracy. Tim is very resourceful politician. He has been elected in the district as a County Democrat, a Republican, and a Tammany man. In 1890 his Republican friends, Johnny Simp-son and John Collins, the leaders in the Fifth and Fourth Assembly districts, helped to elect him by securing for him the Republican endorsement. Two years later when Tim had an easy race as the Tammany candidate, he ignored his Republican friends of 1890 and their call on him for assistance in the way of little deals. He paid the penalty for it last night. The Republican nomination which he has been working for assiduously for weeks and which he declared on Friday he was going to get went to another, and that other was the little brick-top Republican leader in the Fifth Assembly district, who took it for the purpose, he said, of "rubbin' it into Tim," whom he characterized as an "ungrateful Democrat." Congressman Tim was the victim of a surprise.

He had captured Police Commissioner Murray's delegation from the Third Assembly district, and thought that the "jolly" he was getting from Simpson and his old partner in the oil business, John Collins, would be productive of votes enough to secure his nomination in the Republican Congress Convention.

Tim was badly fooled. Johnny Simpson and John Collins were working him for a "guy" and had the "turning joint" ready for him.

When the Republican Convention in the Ninth Congress district adjourned it was to reassem-ble on the call of the Chair. The Chairman was John J. Collins, son of the old Fourth dis-trict leader. It reassembled last night in the club room of the Third district Republicans, corner of Forsyth and Grand streets. but not a delegate from the Third district had been notified. The delegates from the Fourth and Fifth were out in force, and the few from the Third who happened to be in the club room been notified. The delegates from the Fourth and Fifth were out in force, and the few from the Third who happened to be in the club room did not count.

Collins called the Convention to order, and called on Israel Ellis, Secretary, to call the roll.

Ellis is one of the Third district men who wanted to nominate Campbell, and he refused to call the roll.

"This is not the night for holding our Convention," shouted Ellis against the derisive cries of the followers of Simpson and Collins. "This is a trick on our delegation. We have had no notice of this meeting, and I happen to be here only by accident. It's all irregular, and I won't call the roll."

"Shut up!" shouted the crowd. "Go on wid de bizness, Johnny."

"If the Secretary has failed to bring the minutes of the last meeting with him, we'll go on without him," declared Collins. "Gentlemen. nominations are in order for Congressman."

"Simpson! Simpson! Simpson!" yelled the crowd. "Johnny Simpson!" yelled the crowd. "Johnny Simpson! Tell wid Tim Campbell! Simpson! Simpson! Tell wid Tim Campbell! Simpson is your candidate for Congress, gentlemen," announced Chairman Collins.

Nobody heard him put the question and nobody voted "aye" or "no," but Mr. Collins says that he did put the question, and that Simpson was properly nominated.

A crowd of 500 or 600 persons had gathered outside the little old ramahackle building where the Convention was being held, attracted by the shouting. Somebody sent in an alarm to the Eldridge street police station, and a number of patrolmen trotted around and forced their way into the room.

Simpson, who had been carried to the platform to make his speech of acceptance, called out in his squasky voice when he sighted the bluecoats: "There han't to fight here, gentlemen. Now, be easy there. We're just a-holding our Convention and we don't want no interference. We don't want no cubbing here."

This reference to the Rutgers Park incident called forth derisive hoots for the police.

Simpson said in his speech that he expected to be elec

it beyond the realm of possibility that Campbell should be reëlected.

Alderman Cornelius Flynn, whose record in the Mexican war and the last war has earned for him the title among his constituents of the First Assembly district of "Soler" expects to be the candidate for Congress of all organizations opposed to Tammany Hall in the Seventh Congress district. He was nominated by the Independent County organization on Friday night, rill be put on the O'Brien ticket in place of Howard P. Bayne of Staten Island, who has declined in his favor, and is putting down pipe to secure the nomination of the Republicans. ome of these pipes-the biggest of them-were laid down to 49 Brondway and smaller ones in the direction of ex-Postmaster Van Cott and Mr. Theodore Allen. Through these pipes word was whispered that "the divvie of strife has was whispered that "the divvie of strife has been raisin' a ruction wid the Tammany men in de First ward," and that a good way to get votes for Morion and Strong would be to put Cornelius Flynn on the Republican ticket.

Tammany refused to renominate Flynn for Alderman, and he had struck up a sort of alliance with Deputy Sheriff Daniel E. Finn for the purpose of defeating the Tammany candidates in the First Assembly district if he was not named for Alderman and Finn for Assemblyman. Finn, whose strength with the voters of the district is considered superior to that of Flynn, was taken up by Leader Michael C. Murphy and made the regular candidate for Assemblyman. Flynn and his friends are consequently very wroth, and are going to put up as strong a fight as they can against the Tammany ticket. He said yesterday:

"I'm told I'll get the united anti-Tammany nomination for Congress. I s'pose I won't know whether I will or not till Monday."

It is understood that the Republicans will exact a piedge from Flynn to vote in the House as a Republican, should he be elected. If he makes such a promise as that, he will harvily be able to carry many of the true and tried Democrate of the old First with him into the Republican camp.

It was announced last night that 2,500 signatures to the nominating petition had been secured and classified. Among those received yesterday were 78 from Patchogue and one from Carl Schurz. There are now nine places in this city where reformers may find notaries provided with the necessary blanks, and about thirty at the ward headquarters of the Shepardites in Brooklyn.

There was a meeting of the Executive Committee yesterday afternoon.

"Correspondence from the interior of the State," said Secretary Baker after the meeting. The Manual of State appreciated the fact Amer R. Vas Ness.

While M. Serre.

The Secretary of State appreciated the fact that if a nomination was made in the district, it should have been filed with him yesterday, the last day for filing Convention nominations. He therefore delegated Charles McKellor, one of the clerks in his office, who lives in Saratoga, to represent him at the Convention, and bring to the office the nomination when it was made. The nomination was made just too late for the clerk to catch a train for this city. The consequence was that the nomination was not filed in the office here until this morning, although it was received by the Secretary of State's representative before 12 o'clock on the last day of filing. The question then arose with Secretary Paimer that there was a possibility of the nomination not being regular. He questioned whether the paper ought not to have been filed in his office instead of with the clerk. He submitted the matter to the Attorney-General for an opinion. Just as that officer was about to render an opinion the withdrawal telegram was received.

and seemed to understand that this campaign meant a great deal for the party. He declined to give any formal interview to the newspaper men. He said it was not time to talk yet. He was particularly interested, though, in the fact that the young Democrats in the northern and southern tiers were hustling. The Senator left for his home in Albany last night at 6 o'clock. He wanted to get back to his home in Albany in order to have a good rest before he started on time he arrived until he departed, in which he was not busy furthering the cause of the Democratic party in the State and elsewhere. He had scores of visitors, including James T. Woodward, President of the Hanover National Bank and Treasurer of the Democratic State Committee; Naval Officer C. C. Baldwin, Appraiser Walter H. Bunn and some of his staff, including Assistant Appraiser McKinney, and very many others who have not in recent years been closely associated with Senator Hill.

Naturally there was a good deal of discussion as to whether Mr. Lockwood and Judge Brown should allow their names to go on the Wheeler third ticket. Senator Hill said that he would insist upon Mr. Lockwood and Judge Brown accepting his advice, that they let their names remain on the ticket. Mr. Lockwood and Judge Brown were not at the hotel, but their friends were, and they didn't like the proposition. They said it might be considered disloyal to Senator Hill if they allowed their names to remain on the Wheeler ticket. Senator Hill told these representatives of Mr. Lockwood and Judge Brown that it was not a time for sentiment, and that all hands should go in and get all the votes possible for any of the candidates. Senator Hill is not averse in any way to allowing the candidates of the Saratoga Convention to head the Grace local ticket in New York county, and he so informed all of his friends.

A good part of the Senator's time was taken up in hearing the complaints of the Democrata from Hrowlyn and Long Island City. It was admitted that these are the two weak spots in the situation just at the moment. Commissioner James D. Bell of Kings county had a long talk with the Senator, and so did Mayor Sanford of Long Island City. There are certain Democrata in Kings county, it was declared, who think more of their petty little offices and their personal feelings than they do of the Democratic personal feelings than they do of the Democratic hard was ascertained that unknowingly Senator Hill had been booked to speak in these two towns on a lanche, sprung the name of Mr. Fitchie on the Convention, and the nomination was made in a jiffy. Mr. Fitchie had already refused to allow the use of his name, and Mr. Burtis, fearing that he would decline, hurried over to his office in this city, and, after a two hours' talk, finally succeeded in getting his reluctant consent to remain in the race.

There was no more surprised man in Kings county when the votes were counted on election night and Mr. Fitchie found that he had outstripped his popular German competitor by nearly 3,000. Mr. Fitchie had a comparatively narrow escape, as he ran 30,000 behind Mayor Schieren. He naturally felt very grateful to Mr. Burtis, and determined on the first occasion to reward him for his services. Some of the Republican managers have been trying hard to have another man put in the Charities Board, but Mr. Fitchie clung resolutely to his political sponsor. Mr. Burtis's term of Charities Commissioner lasts for four years, SUN in behalf of Senator Hill. During the recent session of Congress Senators Harris and Hill frequently "locked horns" over parliamentary and other questions, but on general party measures and party discipline they are in thorough accord.

Senator Harris says he is not sufficiently familiar with the inside machinery of New York politics and the existing political conditions there to venture a technical opinion on the situation, but on general principles he is carnestly in favor of the election of Senator Hill, and if he lived in New York he would pull off his coat and stump the State for Hill.

"I hold," continued Senator Harris, "that organization is as necessary and as important to a political party as it is to an army in the field. Party differences of opinion may be entertained and pressed until the organization speaks, but when the organized Democracy has readered its final decree, it appears to me that all men who are Democrats, all men who oppose the common enemy, should fall into line. I have not agreed with Senator Hill upon some questions in the Senate, but if I was a citizen of New York I should give him an earnest and cordial support. The organized Democracy of that State have nominated him, evidently against his will. He is a Democrat, and in my opinion all Democrats ought to give him their best efforts. When I say as against the common enemy, I mean as against the Republican candidate and any candidate of any Democratic faction. Every Democrat has his opportunity, his day in court, when and where he has the right to be heard, and he has the right to fight on his lines until the organized Democracy has spoken, if he be a true Democrat, he must fall into line. I chance to know personally and well the Republican as well as the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York. My personal relations are kind with both of them, but if I were a citizen of New York I should take the stump for Hill, believing as I do that it is the daty of every true Democrat in that State to support him as the choice of the place. When the Republican County Convention assembled last year there was no man of any special prominence in the organization who coveted the nomination for Supervisor-at-Large, for which office the Democrats had again put up George Kinkel, a candidate of unquestioned strength before the people. Most of the Republican managers regarded the fight against Mr. Kinkel as hopeless, and almost despaired of getting any man of weight to stand against him. In this dilemma Mr. Burtis, who had apparently foreseen the approach of the Republican avalanche, sprung the name of Mr. Fitchie on the Convention, and the nomination was made in a fifty. Mr. Grace had given him to have filled up for the purpose of having an extra ballot in the booths in help in the fight against Mr. Straus and the Tammany ticket.

"Where is Mr. Straus's headquarters?" asked Mr. Kunzenmann of the hotel clerk, who answered that it was on the floor above. But Mr. Kunzenmann did not hear. He caught sight of The Sun reporter, who had just come down stairs and had heard his inquiry.

"Come and have a cigar!" said he, starting to go in the headquarters.
The reporter didn't want a cigar.

"Say leough], was—was Sulzer up there for asked the visitor.
He was informed that Mr. Sulzer was not up stairs. Still he lingered until, to relieve his embarrassment, the reporter departed, and Mr. Kunzenmann went up stairs.

Perhaps this visit of one of his district leaders to Mr. Straus's headquarters will not suprise ex-Mayor Grace, who got over being surprised at the action of some of his down town East kide friends, when he learned yesterday that Kunzenmann, ex-Alderman W. Frederick Grote, and John Fenneti had gone from the meeting of his Executive Committee Friday night with instructions to nominate an anti-Tammany candidate for Congress in the Eleventh district, to a Convention of the State Democracy held at 78 Second avenue, where Mr. Sulzer's nomination for Congress was unanimously endorsed by the three leaders and their followers. All these leaders have been complaining to Mr. Gracs that they cannot deliver their Jewish supporters to Strong.

Kunzenmann was nominated for Assemblyman by Tammany Hall last night. He has a large personal following who are expected to vote the straight Democratic ticket.

Other callers at Mr. Straus's headquarters were Postmaster Dayton, ex-City Chamberlain Crain, Charities Commissioner Edward C. Sheeby, Register Levy, Supervisor of the City Record W. J. K. Kenny, Police Justice Grady, Superintendent of Buildings Brady, Maurice F. Holohan, and George J. Kraus.

Ex-Mayor Grant, who is to manage the campaign for Mr. Straus, was at the hotel part of the day, as was

The machinery of the campaign had hardly got to work yesterday, but it is expected to whire to-morrow. Mr. Straus's letter of acceptance will not be made public until next Tuesday or Wednesday, and until it is he will have nothing to say with reference to his canvass.

The Tammany orators have not yet been or ganized for the campaign. They will probably be electrifying audiences all over the city by the latter part of next week. The big ratification meeting which Tammany Hall holds every year will occur a week from next Wednesday night. Congressman W. Hourke Congressman will probably be the chief orator. sult is acknowledged even by Republicans to Dedoubtful, with the odds in favor of Mr. Ketcham.

Mr. Ketcham is a graduate of Trinity College at Hartford and the Union College Law School at Albany. He attracted attention by his work on the stump for Tiden in 1876. When Mr. J. W. Hinckley purchased the Poughkeepsis New-Press a few years ago he appointed Mr. Ketcham its editor, which place he held until his appointment by President Cleveland in 1885 as Deputy Internal Revenue Collector. In 1886 President Cleveland appointed him Postmaster of Poughkeepsie. In 1892, a Presidential year, he was elected Mayor of Poughkeepsie, overcoming an adverse majority of 500. No Democrat had ever before been elected to a city office in Poughkeepsie in a Presidential year. As Mayor Mr. Ketcham has made bimself popular by putting through extensive public improvements, including an electric street railroad system, which was built by Mr. Hinckley at a cost of $500,000, and new asphait and brick pavoments, on which $100,000 has been expended. All this has been accomplished without increasing the tax rate.

McCook is considered one of the slickest politicians in his party in the county, and Hedges is one of those cool young men who seem to know that they are standing on their feet always. Col. McCook will be in charge from the rising of the sun to the setting thereof, and later on, and Job Hedges will be constantly on hand to extend the comfort which his great namesake lacked.

G. G. CLUB F OFFENDED.

Republican Conferees Broke Faith in the Ninth District. The perfidious Republicans of the Ninth Assembly district are accused of trifling with Good Government Club F. All the anti-Tam-many organizations in the district met last Wednesday night in the Good Government Club room and talked about candidates, and then they adjourned to meet last night.

The Republicans didn't abide by the agreement, and went off and nominated Joseph T. Hackett for Alderman. The other organizations and the Good Government Club met last night at 524 Hudson street and expressed opinions.

The only thing that everybody was agreed upon was that they would jump in and knock Mr. Hackett to finders if he didn't get out. It was decided to appoint a conference committee first and try to get Mr. Hackett out peacefully.

The Good Government Club wants George W. Miller of the City Reform Club nominated for member of Assembly in the district. GOLDEN-MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Many years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., compounded this medicine of vegetable ingredients which had an especial effect upon the stomach and liver, rousing the organs to healthful activity as well as purifying and enriching the blood. By such means the stomach and the nerves are supplied with pure blood; they will not do duty without it any more than a locomotive can run withpure blood, they will not do duty without it any more than a locomotive can run without coal. You can not get a lasting cure of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, by taking artificially digested foods or pepsin—the stomach must do its own work in its own way. Do not put your nerves to sleep with so-called celery mixtures, it is better to go to the seat of the difficulty and feed the nerve cells on the food they require. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness and Nervous Affections, such as sleeplessness and weak, nervous feelings are completely cured by the "Discovery." It puts on healthy flesh, brings refreshing sleep and invigorates the whole system.
